Bowser's Prisoner May Help Solve Murder

Man of Many Aliases Captured By Kingston Policeman on Saturday Furnishes New York Police With Information Concerning Slaying of Music Student Two Years Ago—Authorities Do Not Divulge Facts He Furnished to Them.

The New York daily papers all comment to some extent on the capture here on Saturday of Harry Sitamore, nation-wide known criminal who was wanted by the New York city authorities as well as in several other cities in various sections of the country. Sitamore was captured single handed by Officer Harold Bowser of the local police force at the point of his gun as he drove through North Front street. Several of the New York papers give credit for the arrest to Detective Horan who had trailed Sitamore for weeks in various sections of the country. One New York paper states that Sitamore was arrested by Sheriff Wells and Detective Horan and Detective Collins.

Bowser Alone Made Capture.

A general alarm had been sent out by the local police authorities and the sheriff's office, but it was Officer Bowser alone who captured the much wanted criminal.

Detective Horan had been notified that Sitamore was in this vicinity and had come to Kingston but at the time Sitamore was captured by Officer Bowser Detective Horan was at headquarters conferring with the local police.

New Clues in Lawson Murder.

According to the New York Times, new evidence was obtained Monday by the police which may lead them to the two men who slipped into the apartment of Louise Lawson, erstwhile music student, two years ago and murdered her in much the same fashion as Dot King had been slain a short time before.

It was reported at police headquarters that two men, now serving long terms in Sing Sing, had been indicated to the police as able to assist in the solution of the Lawson crime, one of the most puzzling of unsolved murders. One of the men was questioned but was unable to aid at the time of the death of Miss Lawson.

The additional information in the Lawson case was supplied to Inspector John D. Coughlin, in command of detectives, and to Assistant District Attorney Charles J. Garrison, who questioned Harry Sitamore arrested on two charges.

The arrest was on a bench warrant issued on two indictments. One charged him with the robbery of Mrs. Mildred Ford two years ago in her apartment in West Forty-seventh street. The second alleged that Sitamore, aided by Harry Behan, alias Lesser, alias Jackson, alias "The Hawk," in the assault and robbery of Mrs. Howard Johnson, wife of the song composer, who narrowly escaped death. Mrs. Johnson was nearly garroted in a suite in the Hotel Alamac on February 8, 1924. Jewelry valued at $9,000 was stolen from her.

Both the police and the district attorney's staff were disinclined to discuss the information gleaned from Sitamore. Mr. Garrison refused to make any statement as he left police headquarters, saying that he wished first to put the matter before District Attorney Banton or his chief assistant, Ferdinand Pecora.

Later, when Mr. Pecora was informed that two men had been mentioned in reports, he said:

"I know nothing of what transpired at police headquarters in the matter this afternoon, and Mr. Garrison, who represented this office there, thinks it is not advisable to divulge what he learned."

"Did Mr. Garrison learn something that will warrant the reopening of the Lawson case?"

"The Lawson case has never been closed. There is no statute of limitations in a murder case," replied Mr. Pecora.

"Was something learned that will bring fresh activity in the investigation?"

"I'll let Mr. Garrison answer that," said Mr. Pecora, warning a hand in the direction of his colleague.

Mr. Garrison weighed the matter in his mind and then said, "Yes."

Subsequently, from another source, it was learned that the transcript of Sitamore's examination did not show that he had named two men in connection with the crime in his statement, despite police statements that he had. Mr. Pecora and his assistant refused to tell whether a transcript had been made.

Had Louisiana License Plate.

When Sitamore was arrested he was driving a Buick coupe. The car carried the license plate, 17242 Louisiana. A telegram was dispatched to the New Orleans police asking them to check up on the license plate. Upon Sitamore's arrival at headquarters Monday morning he was placed in the line up.

After this preliminary he was taken to Inspector Coughlin's office for questioning. The first thing he was asked about was the robbery of Mrs. Johnson. Harry Behan, who was arrested soon after the crime, was sentenced to twenty years in prison for his share in the robbery. At the time of his sentence Mr. Garrison, who prosecuted the case, said that he had information that Behan had been with Miss Lawson six hours before her death. In the Johnson robbery, two others were named. One was Behan's wife, now out on $10,000 bail, and "Harry Victor."

According to the police Sitamore and "Victor" are the same.

When the police began to press about the Johnson case, Sitamore, positively identified by Mrs. Johnson as one of the two men in the apartment just before she was slugged and lost consciousness, admitted that he had attended the "party." He said that he had known the Behans and had accepted their invitation, but that he had left before the robbery was staged.

According to the police, Sitamore went to Detroit. There, according to their statement, he was arrested for picking pockets. The technical charge against him was disorderly conduct and he forfeited his bail, going to Kansas City. The detectives said that he remained in Kansas City for a short time and then went to Washington.

Wanted in Washington.

His activities in Washington, they said, were indicated by two warrants which reached headquarters late Monday. One charged Sitamore with obtaining $10,000 in jewels in the hold-up of Otto Deutsch, jeweler, at 131 Webster street, Washington. The date of this hold-up, they said, was December 6 last. The second warrant alleged Sitamore participated in the robbery of William Rosen, a furrier, at 1,215 G street, N. W., Washington.

The police said that Sitamore explained that the $10,000 in jewels which Deutsch complained about were not stolen but were given him as collateral for a loan he had extended to the jeweler. He denied all knowledge of the fur robbery.

Sitamore, in addition to being asked about Behan, was questioned about a man named John Feinstein. Feinstein was accused in the robbery of Mme. Edith Bobe, modiste. She and an escort were held up by two masked men in the vestibule of her home at 153 East Sixty-third street on the night of September 16, 1924. On November 19 the jury in General Sessions which tried Feinstein, disagreed and was discharged.

On February 19, last, Feinstein was sentenced to prison for nine years. He had pleaded guilty to holding up the drug store of Isadore Chernik at 4,046 Third avenue, three weeks after the disagreement of the jury in the Bobe case. A man who was with Feinstein in the pharmacy holdup was killed in the robbery.

After being questioned Sitamore was lodged in the Tombs. He will probably be arraigned today in General Sessions.

New Orleans Police Puzzled.

A special despatch to the New York Times from New Orleans says: The police here were at loss to explain the reported presence of Louisiana automobile license No. 17242 on a coupe said to have been driven by Harry Sitamore, arrested at Kingston, N. Y., Sunday.

At the headquarters where the last report from the Highway Commissioner at Baton Rouge showed that license No. 17242 is the highest number issued so far for 1925. Detectives of the Police Automobile Theft Bureau expressed the belief that if the number has been correctly reported it was sent to Sitamore by some one who obtained it illegally, or that it was placed on his automobile after having been obtained improperly by him. Or, they said, the license plate may be spurious unless it is one of a small number issued by mistake.

A man thought to be Sitamore was arrested here recently but was released after Bertillon measurements proved he was not the man sought. Detectives assert, however, that Sitamore has been in New Orleans recently and that he was seen in a night life resort.

SUPERVISORS TO BEGIN ANNUAL SESSION TONIGHT.

The board of supervisors will begin their regular session this evening at 7:30 o'clock. After the session the Ulster County Superintendents Association will hold their annual meeting in the court room.

James Waddell Away.

Charles Lasher of New Paltz reported to the sheriff's office this morning that three horses owned by him had been stolen. About 11 o'clock Mr. Lasher notified Sheriff Wells that the horses had been found, having wandered away from the place.

Delaware County Population Gains

Five Year Gain Is 678—In War Years the County Lost Population—Incorporated Villages Still Show Loss.

By Telegraph to The Freeman. Albany, Nov. 10.—The 1925 census gives Delaware county a population of 43,452, representing a gain of 678 for the past five years, the Federal census of 1920 crediting the county with a population of 42,774, or 3,221 decrease from 1915. During the war years, from 1915 to 1920, seven of the incorporated villages and all but one town, lost population. The incorporated villages of Downsview, Sidney and Walton show decreases during the past five years.

The 1920 and 1925 census figures for the incorporated villages of Delaware county follow:

	1920	1925
Andes	394	429
Dehli	1,669	1,775
Deposit	1,943	2,038
Downsview	692	567
Fleischmanns	525	711
Franklin	476	502

Margaretville	650	800
Sidney	2,670	2,499
Stamford	947	1,151
Walton	3,598	3,511

That portion of the village of Deposit in Delaware county represents, according to the 1925 census, 832 of the 2,038, leaving that portion of the village in Broome county with a population of 1,206.

"Dry" Campaign In Germany

By Telegraph to The Freeman. Berlin, Nov. 10.—Germany today finds itself threatened with a real campaign for prohibition.

The first move was the introduction of a bill in the Reichstag providing for local option. This bill, fathered by German "drys" was taken up by the Reichstag in December, and it will be given an opportunity for serious consideration.

Heretofore the Reichstag has refused to consider prohibition seriously, but now leaders admit that the question must be given serious consideration.

"Wets" are already aroused and have started a counter attack, and are warning the German people that they must rise to protest against this measure, lest they find themselves legislated dry by surprise.

Indications of the public opposition to prohibition in Berlin were given last night when a crowd surrounded a prohibition meeting and staged a monster demonstration which necessitated the police being called out. There were no casualties.

HEAVY FIGHTING BETWEEN FRENCH AND REBELS

By Telegraph to The Freeman. Paris, Nov. 10.—A general French offensive under the leadership of General Gamelin, will be launched against the Syrian rebels in the vicinity of Damascus tomorrow, according to the Cairo correspondent of the newspaper Liberte.

Cairo, Nov. 10.—Heavy fighting between the French and the Syrian rebels is reported in progress outside Damascus and upon the issue may depend the possibilities of a siege of Damascus, according to reports received here.

Other reports state that the Druze chieftains have notified the citizens of Damascus that they will not attack the city.

French authorities have made wholesale arrests in Damascus of persons suspected of being in league with the rebels.

SAYS WALES PRINCE WILL MARRY SPANISH BEAUTY

By Telegraph to The Freeman. Madrid, Nov. 10.—The Prince of Wales will marry the daughter of a wealthy and titled Spanish army officer, now retired and living in Buenos Aires, according to newspaper reports published here.

The newspapers declared that the romance is the result of the prince's recent visit to South America where he is said to have met the Spanish beauty and won her.

Persistent reports of the engagement of the Prince of Wales have recurred in London following his return from South America. They are not generally accepted however.

Posse Searches Mountains for Dell Fellows

Young Outlaw Escapes From Nashville Prison and Returns to Ashland To See His Child—Shoots Police Chief When He Is Recognized.

By Telegraph to The Freeman. Ashland, N. H., Nov. 10.—Carrying orders of "shoot to kill," two hundred armed citizens were searching every nook and corner of the mountains near here today for Dell Fellows, twenty five year old outlaw. Fellows, son of a wealthy Vermont family, escaped from the state penitentiary in Nashville, Tenn., three weeks ago in order to see his two weeks old baby.

While Chief of Police George Dow was attempting to arrest the fugitive late yesterday on the streets here, Fellows drew a revolver and pumped five bullets into the chief, probably fatally wounding him.

Determination to get "Dell" Fellows "dead or alive" was in the heart of every member of the big posse today as the mountaineers were trapped.

The shooting of Chief Dow and the man hunt which followed furnished a new chapter in the story of the life of a wealthy young man gone wrong that reads like a novel.

Parents Wealthy.

He was christened George Ordell Fellows. His parents are highly respected and wealthy residents of Canaan, Vermont. At an early age, residents of Canaan said, the boy, who was called "Dell" was hard to control.

While still in school he was involved in a shooting affair at Granby, Vermont, in which Michael Nolan was seriously wounded.

Eluding the officers of the law, "Dell" Fellows jumped aboard a freight train and made his way west. His father adjusted the troubles with Vermont authorities.

Served in Marine Corps.

The next heard of Fellows he was serving in the marine corps and he is said to have made a brave and excellent soldier.

A School Teacher.

After his term of enlistment was up, "Dell" returned to Vermont and began a career as school teacher in a Lunenburg school.

Early in his life as a village schoolmaster, young Fellows eloped with Miss Marion Bunnell, known as the prettiest girl in the town.

Handles Clergyman Roughly.

A few weeks later, "Dell" Fellows was in trouble again. The village minister called at the school one day to suggest that discipline was lax in the school. Fellows promptly grabbed the clergyman by the collar and threw him bodily from the school house.

Escapes From Jail.

He was arrested and placed in the Lunenburg jail. Securing a saw by some means unknown, Fellows cut the bars of his cell and escaped. A posse followed his trail to a farm house, where the young schoolmaster was cornered.

Kills Deputy Sheriff.

When Fellows came down stairs in the farm house he carried a coat over his arm and beneath it he had concealed a sawed off shot gun. The deputy sheriff, an elderly man, in charge of the posse, was struck over the head by Fellows. As the deputy fell, Fellows jumped through a window of the farm house and escaped to the woods. For months the young fugitive was hunted in the mountains. His name became a terror in every household in the north country.

Escapes to Tennessee.

Fellows's knowledge of woodcraft made it possible for him to travel over the mountains for weeks until he reached Plymouth, N. H. At Plymouth he is alleged to have stolen an automobile.

Driving back into Vermont through the cordon of men on the lookout for him, the young outlaw picked up his young wife and started south.

Sent To Prison.

In the Tennessee mountains the young couple were arrested. Fellows was sent to the Nashville prison but his wife was released because she was soon to become a mother. The child was born soon after she returned to Vermont.

Dared Death To See Child.

"Dell" Fellows dared death and defied arrest in escaping from the Tennessee penitentiary in order to see his child.

Shoots Police Chief.

On the street there, following a visit to his wife and little one, Fellows was recognized. Chief of Police Dow, who works in a local mill, was just coming from work. He stopped up to Fellows. As Dow was about to arrest the youthful outlaw, Fellows drew a revolver and fired. Then, before the astonished townspeople could act, he had fled to the railroad yards and into the woods behind the town.

Town Engaged in Hunt.

The board of selectmen at a meeting this morning offered a reward of $200 for the capture of Fellows "dead or alive." Shops and stores in town were closed as was the high school in order that the boys could join with the citizen posse.

Supper at Flatbush.

A supper will be served on Wednesday evening from 6 to 8 o'clock in the T. N. C. Club house, Flatbush, under the auspices of the Sunday school. A delicious menu has been prepared.

1926 Plates Arrive Nov. 23

By Telegraph to The Freeman. Albany, Nov. 10.—Supplies of 1926 plates for automobiles will be in the hands of the various county clerks and issuing officers on November 23, the Bureau of Motor Vehicles announced today.

Owners of automobiles and other motor vehicles are reminded that the registration of their cars must be renewed and new number plates procured for the operation of cars on and after January 1, 1926. The application and fees for renewal are the same as for the original registration. All registrations of 1925, whenever made, will expire on January 1. Preparations have been made to provide 1926 number plates five weeks in advance this year, and every owner who desires to drive his car on January 1, in compliance with the law will have ample opportunity to renew his registration before that date.

Under provisions of a new law renewal plates may be substituted for plates on automobiles any time within five days of the beginning of the year for which they were issued. In view of the opportunity given for registration renewals, Commissioner Charles A. Harnett says there should be no confusion at the close of this year and that no days of grace will be allowed. On and after January 1 persons who own and drive cars not properly registered will be subject to arrest.

Italian Mission Prolongs Its Stay

As Authorized By Premier Mussolini In An Effort To Secure Debt Settlement—Unusual Statistics Presented.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Rome, Nov. 10.—Premier Mussolini has authorized the Italian debt mission to prolong its stay in the United States in an effort to secure a settlement of the Italo-American debt. It was announced today.

The mission has cancelled its arrangements for returning to Italy this week and has now taken passage for November 18, it was said.

Count Volpi and the Italian mission have laid great stress, during their negotiations on conditions of life in Italy, as indicative of the inability of Italy to pay in full immediately. It was learned today.

To contrast conditions of livelihood in Italy and the United States the Italian mission has presented some unusual statistics as follows: The United States has 15,600,000 motor cars while Italy has only 65,000.

American citizens eat 165 pounds of meat per capita each year while Italians can afford 22 pounds per capita.

America consumes sugar at the rate of 10 1/2 pounds per capita per year while Italy holds sugar a luxury and consumes only 15 1/2 pounds per capita.

For every five tons of coal consumed in American industry only 500 pounds are consumed in Italy.

American salaries average six times greater than Italian salaries.

CONGREGATION VOTES ON LETTING HIM LIVE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Denver, Colo., Nov. 10.—An amazing side light to the sensational Blazer trial in progress at Littleton was revealed here today when it was learned that Barney Haughey, 66, a Denver attorney, single tax advocate, and active in local political circles, had asked the congregation of the church of which he was a member to take a vote on whether he should be put to death.

Haughey is confined in a local hospital suffering from what is believed to be cancer of the stomach.

Bishop Frank H. Rice, of the Liberal Church, today declined to make public the result of the vote which, he said, was registered last Sunday.

Haughey declared he had made the unusual request because of the deep interest he had taken in the trial of Dr. Harold E. Blazer for the slaying of his helpless daughter.

"I have been in this hospital for a month," Haughey declared. "And since the Blazer trial started I have given deep thought to the problem of the physically and mentally unfit. If my case is hopeless, if there is nothing in the future for me but subject misery and pain, it seems to me that immediate death would be the best solution. If there is no hope I do not see why I should not be permitted to die."

POLITICAL HOLDUPS HAVE RECURRED IN DUBLIN.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Dublin, Nov. 10.—Political holdups have recurred in Dublin during the past few days, leading to fears that there may be a resurgence to the days of the Black and Tan warfare. Armed men kidnapped Patrick Sheehan, formerly secretary to De Valera but now a member of the prison commission, took him for a taxi-cab ride. They warned him his life would not be spared unless his prison conditions were immediately improved. The books of the British legation were seized by armed men.

County Court in Recess to Monday

Defendants Claim Insufficient Time Allowance to Prepare for Trial—Two Incompetency Proceedings Determined by Jury.

County court was convened Monday afternoon at the court house with County Judge Joseph M. Bowler presiding for the purpose of taking up the criminal calendar. District Attorney Traver moved several cases for trial and in each instance the attorney for the defendant informed the court that it was impossible to proceed with trial as sufficient time had not been granted to prepare the case. This situation prevailed in all of the cases in which the district attorney was ready to proceed and as a result court took a further recess until Monday morning at 10 o'clock. At that time it is hoped there will be some case ready for trial.

No Delay for Cashdollar.

Judge William D. Brinnier appeared for the Cashdollar brothers, who are under indictment for maintaining a disorderly house, public nuisance and house of ill fame at Jenkinstown, town of Gardiner, and also on two charges of abduction, and asked the court to put the cases over as he had not had time to prepare them. One defendant had been arraigned but a week ago and that was the first charge had been known. He asked that time be given to prepare for trial and suggested the cases go over.

The motion was opposed by Mr. Traver who stated that the Cashdollar indictments had been brought when the grand jury reported some time last month and that at that time the charge had been made public when one of the defendants who was in jail had been arraigned. The other defendant had been out on bail and counsel for the defendants must have known the charge when he provided bail bond. Judge Fowler after listening to argument declined to put the cases over the term.

Enters Plea of Not Guilty.

Eltzge Hasbrouck was arraigned on a charge of driving a car while intoxicated in the town of New Paltz. He pleaded not guilty and upon failure to provide bail was remanded to the custody of the sheriff.

Two Incompetency Proceedings.

A jury was taken and two incompetency proceedings were tried. The first was the matter of the competency of Mrs. Ethel Oakley, formerly of the town of Olive. The jury found that she was not competent to manage her affairs and care for her property, which consisted of a residence property valued at about $1,500, a dower right in some woodland and some money in the Kerhonkson bank and the Ulster County Savings Institution. A committee will be appointed by the court. M. O. Auchmoody appeared for the petitioner.

The second proceeding was in the matter of the competency of Wilson Derringer, of Quarryville, town of Saugerties. The jury found him incompetent to manage his affairs and care for his property, which consists of a dwelling house at Quarryville. Benjamin Rowe appeared for the petitioner.

Jurors were excused until Monday, November 16, at 10 o'clock in the morning.

An extra panel of 50 jurors was present at the court house this morning and was examined and excused until next week.

Berlin Police Still After Anderson.

By Telegraph to The Freeman. Berlin, Nov. 10.—Unmindful of the fact that George "Dutch" Anderson, pal of Gerald Chapman, the super bandit, was killed more than a week ago, the Berlin police today broadcast a statement to the public inviting them to cooperate in tracing Anderson, who they state is believed to be hiding in Germany.

The announcement says that the American government has offered a grant of fifty hundred dollars for the capture of Anderson.

Injured His Fingers.

Wendolph Brown, 19 years old of 455 Albany avenue, who is employed by the Ford Packing Company, lacerated the fingers on one of his hands on Monday. The wounds were dressed by Dr. A. A. Stern at the Kingston City Hospital.

Cracks Car, Breaks Arm.

Albert Lenz of Lawrence street fractured his right arm on Monday while cracking his automobile. The fracture was reduced by Dr. Larkin.

Wednesday, morning the Colonial Division of the Kingston Consolidated Railroad will be abandoned and all trolley cars will run over the Kingston City Division from North Front and Wall streets to Kingston Point. Owing to the action of the common council in refusing to grant the trolley road's application to operate a bus line in the section now served by the Colonial Division residents along the abandoned line will be forced to walk.

New Running Time.

Twenty minute time will be provided on the Kingston City Division from 6 a. m. to 7 a. m. on week days and 7 a. m. to 9 a. m. on Sundays, and thereafter the cars will run on ten minute time the remainder of the day until 9 o'clock in the evening when twenty minute time will go into effect until midnight.

Impossible To Announce Before.

It was impossible for the trolley road to announce before just when the Colonial Division would be abandoned on account of working conditions and the rainy weather that has prevailed. It had been possible the trolley road would have made an announcement much earlier of the time of abandonment.

Not To Use Subway.

The trolley road on Wednesday will run all cars over the Broadway crossing as the subway is not ready for use. It will take a week or ten days for the cement that has been laid in the subway to harden and for the overhead equipment to be strung. As soon as the subway is ready for use it will be used by all trolley cars in place of the Broadway crossing.

Schedule of Time.

Beginning Wednesday morning the first car to leave Kingston Point starts at 5:50 o'clock on week days and at 6:50 o'clock Sundays.

The first car leaving North Front and Wall streets will start at 6 o'clock on week days and 7 o'clock on Sundays.

Ten minute time on the trolley road will be maintained from Kingston at 7 a. m. and at Kingston Point at 6:50 a. m. on week days and on Sundays at 8:10 from Kingston and 7:50 a. m. from Kingston Point.

No Day Service to Point.

Under ten minute headway the cars will run only as far as East Union street on North street and continue so running throughout the day until 9:05 in the evening when the first car through to Kingston Point will be at 9:30 and continue thereafter on twenty minute time until midnight.

It is understood that the seniority rule will be put in force on the trolley road starting Wednesday. In other words, the men who have been employed for the longest period of time on both roads will be given preference.

To Have Enough Crows.

There will be a sufficient number of men to take care of the rush hours when it will be necessary to run double-headers on the trolley road.

Takes Time to Adjust.

It will take a week or ten days for the trolley road to adjust itself to operating all cars on one division, but the situation will be carefully studied so that the public will be afforded service.

No Bus Service.

With the abandonment of the Colonial Division on Wednesday no bus service will be afforded the residents who have been served by the Colonial Line owing to the action of the common council in refusing to grant the trolley road's application to install a bus service. The trolley road's petition hung fire in the common council for over seven months before it was finally rejected by the aldermen.

Why Abandonment Wednesday.

Wednesday morning the next break in the Colonial Division will be made at North Front street and Wall street, and when the cut in the tracks is made it will be impossible to get cars off the Colonial Line on to the Kingston City Division. That is the reason why the Colonial Line will be abandoned on Wednesday.

New Schedule Better Service.

Under the new schedule of operating time in effect on Wednesday on the main line of the trolley road the public will be afforded better trolley service as the cars will be operating under ten minute headway from 7 o'clock in the morning until 9 o'clock at night. The schedule as arranged calls for twenty minute running time only for an hour in the early morning and from 9 o'clock in the evening until midnight.

Small Chapeau Is Favored by Paris

Autumn Hat Closely Fitted to Head; High Pinched Crown Popular.

Who shall say that a "chapeau" is merely a covering for the head? What woman dare disregard the fit—the line—the smartness of the hat she dons? Speaking generously and generally, no woman overlooks that important article of her costume, for the simple reason that—as the Parisian puts it: "If the chapeau is chic, the femme is well dressed" and vice versa.

The French woman has an inherited knack and intuition when it comes to choosing a hat, and a positive genius when it comes to putting that hat on. She can jam it on her head and achieve a coquettish angle; twist it just a bit and roll it; there is something "charmant" Oh yes, the Parisian knows how to do it, but American womenfolk are rapidly acquiring the art themselves.

As a popular screen player has expressed it "American women are beginning to appreciate the irrefutable importance of the hat and are giving it the consideration it deserves."

Incredible as it may seem, Paris has decreed still another season of small hats—smaller, if possible, than the cloche, closely fitted to the head, more versatile in its variations and decidedly chic.

To concur with the falling leaves of autumn, the milliners of authority have set their stamp of approval on unbrushed velvets, soft velvets; heavy grosgrain and the ever-popular felt.

Collection of Autumn Millinery Approved by Paris.

These are the accepted mediums for the fall hat.

The hat worn by the model is a tiny thing of a cinnamon-brown grosgrain all over a brim that rolls back. The square folded bits of grosgrain all over the crown are of self-color and most unusual in the smart effect they create. At heart the chapeau is nothing more or less than a cloche, but its striking chic, atop the military stock and jabot, adds a new, elusive elegance to any costume.

The other five models included in the sketch are copies of little French imports for fall, and include, from left to right, a rose beige felt with gold kid band; a mole-gray grosgrain slouch, with a half circle of red, green and white celluloid cards fastened to the crown by a silver ornament; a velours in pimento red, trimmed with heavy grosgrain cocardes of mauve and champagne; a dull fuchsia grosgrain with a velvet, broken brim in front and a full brim, turned up in back, and a formal velvet hat in black, with a jaunty bit of silver kid twisted up at the side, to complete it.

A high, pinched crown seems to be the guiding note of the fall chapeau, which retains in shape and character, the fundamental charm of the demure, youthful cloche.

much indoors as out, some of the most alluring hostess gowns being of these materials, while, of course, metal cloths find favor especially among those who like the exotic.

Velvet, brocaded chiffons are an excellent choice for the woman who wants a dignified and durable robe (intime, as the French term it). Bindings of fur, especially dyed rabbit, are a smart touch. Many of the very best looking negligees could be easily confused with evening wraps, being made of materials quite as elegant and cut on coat lines.

Lovely handpainted silks, usually in border effects, are charming for formal hostess gowns, while, of course, wide lace flouncings, especially metal lace and chiffons are old favorites which lose none of their charm for the woman who likes the softly clinging femininity expressed by these materials.

"ONE CAN CARRY IT EASILY ANYWHERE"

Dear Sir:
I feel safe in saying that my Perfection Oil Heater is the greatest standby. We have had one for years, and use it all seasons of the year, when having company, to take the chill off any room, as one can carry it easily, anywhere. Also, on extremely cold days we burn it in the cellar to keep apples and potatoes from freezing. Many times I get lunch on it, if there are only one or two things to warm up, and no fire in the range. While eating, water is heating for dishes. I also find it indispensable for popping corn. I wouldn't part with my Heater for any price, if I couldn't replace it with another.

Sincerely yours,

SAVANNAH'S EXPLANATION.

When the City of Rome sunk the submarine S-51 there was nothing heroic in the behavior of Captain Diehl, even if nothing actually culpable, and he was openly criticized for doing little in the way of rescue work and for leaving the scene of the tragedy so soon. Therefore surprise was widely expressed when a dispatch from Savannah stated that the arrival of the City of Rome at that port was greeted with public rejoicing, whistles being blown and bells rung during an hour or more. Distant editors asked in astonishment what the people of Savannah thought they were celebrating so soon after and seemingly in connection with a lamentable tragedy, their supposed confidence in Captain Diehl not being sufficient by itself to explain, in the circumstances.

Savannah's explanation, now reported, is not merely that the account was much exaggerated. "Such little whistle blowing as took place," one of Savannah's newspapers is quoted, in summary, "was not at all in reference to Captain Diehl and what he did or did not do at the time of the collision, but simply manifested rejoicing that the passengers, most of whom were Savannah people, had escaped from what easily might have been as tragical for them as it was for the men on the submarine." This satisfactory explanation is of interest apart from its immediate bearing. It is a reminder that the facts and the truth may not be the same and may even conflict. Before reporting the whistle-blowing the dispatch writer should have ascertained precisely why it was ordered, instead of arriving independently at a not altogether illogical conclusion.

"OPTIMISTIC LIES."

Optimism which breathes a spirit of sincerity, and reveals genuine desire for useful service, is a good thing. So is 100 per cent Americanism—in moderation, in its proper place, and combined with good will toward other countries. But when there is wilful exaggeration at the expense of truth, or ranting by self-seeking orators lacking in both ideas and sincere purpose, the judicious observer is not only bored but may be reminded of Dr. Johnson's caustic complaint that patriotism was becoming the last refuge of the scoundrel. In view of the great flood of designing rant by professional boosters, some recent candid remarks of the Rev. Dr. A. R. Petty of New York are both timely and gratifying. Addressing a convention of Pennsylvania Kiwanis Club members, he said in part:

A false optimism is one of the curses in America today. One of our national menaces is the "pep" speaker, the orator whose gospel is optimism, who paints glowing pictures of unsatisfactory conditions. Kiwanis Clubs are familiar with his species. We have heard him speak and applauded him. He is dangerous. We hate to hear the truth. We would rather hear optimistic lies. But the "pep" speaker is dangerous. Another menace is the self-styled and self-proclaimed optimist. I believe the 100 per cent American who shouts his patriotism from the housetops and damns every one who does not agree with his views is a real menace. We must get rid of the "pep" speaker and listen to the truth. I believe in enthusiasm. That phase of optimism is fine. But to turn one's back on conditions that cry for relief and yell at the top of your lungs that everything is right and wonderful is a policy fraught with danger to this country.

Boston, once called the Athens of America, the center of art and culture on this side of the Atlantic, is now described by St. John Ervine, the English dramatist and critic, as a town where the worst plays in the world get the largest audiences and the best plays the least. There may be point in this criticism, for Bostonians of the old type are now relatively few in the midst of a polyglot population, yet it is within the bounds of possibility that Mr. Ervine's view is largely based on the lack of drawing power of his own productions in the erstwhile "Athens of America."

Nowhere in the world perhaps is the new era of "sex equality" so startlingly noticeable as in Constantinople. Formerly veiled Turkish women were restricted to two rows of seats in a trolley car, where they sat behind curtains. Now they sit with uncovered faces all over the car and "side by side with men."

A New York elevator operator says he has traveled 37,375 miles upward—and presumably as many downward—during the past 23 years. Nobody escapes trouble, but few can match this man in the matter of the ups and downs of life.

WHITE OR WHOLE WHEAT BREAD.

The bakers throughout the country are getting out pamphlets showing that it takes three and a half loaves of whole wheat bread to obtain the same body building nourishment, as contained in one loaf of bread made from refined bran free flour, properly digested in yeast.

Our whole wheat friends are equally emphatic as to the higher value of their product over the ordinary white bread, because they get the full value of the wheat without having to add anything. The friends of the white bread state that the trouble with whole wheat bread is that it contains the bran or cellulose covering of the wheat berry, and as this is indigestible, therefore the body has to do much more work to do than in the white bread.

The whole wheat advocates then point out that the lining of this bran covering contains much nourishment which the white bread bakers lose in "refining" their flour so much.

The white bread makers come right back and state that in their system of refining they get this "lining" away from the bran covering, and that the digestive juices get a better chance to act upon it than if it were left adhering to the woody bran covering of the wheat.

To solve this whole difficulty, and answer all arguments, some bakers are adding the whole wheat to the ordinary refined flour, and are thus able to advertise a whole wheat white bread.

Now what about white bread and whole wheat bread?

In persons with a "slow intestine" there can be no question but that the natural whole wheat bread has the effect of irritating the muscular walls, and stimulating action all along the small and large intestines.

With others this very irritation is unwise, because it overstimulates the sides of the intestines, and the food hurries along without getting completely digested, and sometimes sets up a diarrhoea that is quite weakening.

On the other hand the slow intestine does not seem to move the white bread mass along, and it "sticks" in the intestine for a longer period than it should.

So now you have the usual arguments about white and whole wheat bread. They both have their advantages and their disadvantages, so you can make your own choice.

Commission to Study Schools

New Form of Taxation is Expected to Aid Cities in Meeting School Problems—First Commission Session Within Two Weeks.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Albany, Nov. 10.—A commission to make a comprehensive study of the financial problems facing school systems throughout the state was today appointed by Governor Smith. The governor was authorized to name the commission at a conference of educators in the executive chamber last week.

A new form of taxation is expected to be recommended by the commission to aid cities in meeting their school problems.

The governor urged the commission to complete the survey as soon as possible. It is expected the commission will submit its report to the executive early in the year. It, in turn, will submit it to the 1926 legislature.

Many of the city school systems are facing financial ruin, according to Dr. Frank P. Graves, state commissioner of education. Dr. Graves favored an amendment to the constitution to increase the two per cent taxing limit on real estate, but this was opposed by many of those at the governor's conference.

The commission will consist of Colonel Michael Friedsam of New York; Senator Cole of Bath; Senator Downing of New York; Assemblyman F. Trubee Dabson of Locust Valley; Assemblyman Bloch of New York; leader of the Democratic minority in the lower house; William J. Wallin of Yonkers, a member of the state board of regents; E. W. Edwards, representing the State Federation of Labor.

Dr. Frank P. Graves, education commissioner; Felix M. Warburg of New York; Mrs. William F. Felton, president of the Buffalo board of education; Robert E. Simon, president of the United Parents' Association of Greater New York; William L. Eitinger, former superintendent of schools of New York city; George J. Ryan, president of the New York city board of education.

Herbert S. West, superintendent of schools of Rochester; Mrs. Samuel W. Bens of Utica; Lewis A. DeLafayette, Jr., of New York city; James Byrne of New York, a member of the regents; Miss Olive Jones of New York; Mrs. Edmund N. Huyck of Albany; Supreme Court Justice Thomas W. Churchill of New York; Mrs. H. A. Hamilton of Elmira; Grover C. Morehart of Syracuse University; Blossom Michaels of Syracuse.

The commission is expected to hold its first session within two weeks.

ARMY DISCIPLINE IN 1775.

Camp Order by George Washington, commander-in-chief of the Army of the United Colonies:

"Headquarters, Cambridge, November 10, 1775.

(Parole, Cumberland.)

The General thanks Colonel Thompson and the other gallant officers and soldiers, (as well of other Regiments as the Rifles) for their alacrity yesterday, in pushing through the water to get to the enemy on Lechmere's Point. He is informed that there were some (names as yet unknown) who discovered a backwardness in crossing the causeway; these will be marked. If they can be discovered.

The General was much surprised and concerned to see the order in which many of the arms, in several of the Regiments, appeared: he had not time to inquire the names of the particular officers to whose Companies they belonged, but desires that this hint may be received, as an admonition, by such officers as are conscious of their neglect of this duty, as other methods will be fallen upon, if it is not.

Thus spoke George Washington, disciplinarian, of the encounter at Lechmere Point reported yesterday, in which the British gave the lives of two of their men and secured in return ten cows. Note the distinction accorded to Colonel Thompson by the underscoring of his name, contrasting with the reference to others who were backward in going forward at the causeway; also, the delicate reminder of the "other methods" awaiting officers who allowed their men to neglect the care of their firearms.

However, the commander-in-chief's great concern over the affair of the day before was not primarily about rusty muskets or about the backwardness of a few men wading through water up to their waists under the fire of forts and warships against British regulars with their feet upon dry land. He reserved the statement of his greatest concern for a letter which he wrote to Joseph Reed, a member of his headquarters staff.

This little manoeuvre of the enemy is nothing more than a prelude," he wrote in this letter. "We have certain advice of a scoundrel from Marblehead, a mad dog of property, having carried to General Howe a true state of the temper and disposition of the troops towards the new enlistment, and given him the strongest assurances of the practicability of making himself master of these lines in a very short time, from the disaffection of the soldiers to the service. . . . There is not an officer in the army who does not look for an attack."

We are to hear more as to this "disaffection of the soldiers to the service" in a few days.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

By MARY GRAYSON BONNER

BEAUTY'S YOUTH

Beauty was young in those days, even younger than she is now, for Beauty has never been and will never be really old.

There will always be a newness and a freshness about her. Her loveliness will always strike people as something young and full of life.

But she was even younger then. So young that she had only a very little idea in her fair head, only one little bit of an idea. The idea she had was that she was so beautiful that nothing else mattered.

Nothing else was of any importance save her beauty. She stretched her arms one morning as she awoke and looked at herself in a glorious mirror that she had. She sighed a happy sigh of satisfaction and said to herself:

"I am so beautiful that nothing else matters."

Then she looked out of her window at the golden sunlight and smiled.

"Golden Sunlight, you, too, belong to me," she said.

"Later I shall play with you. Together we will dance and the dance will be the most sparkling dance ever seen."

"We will run after each other in and out of the shadows."

"We will play in the forests and the glow of our beauty and the sunbeams of our playtime will laugh and scamper with our merriment."

"I will be with you, Sunlight, in a very short time."

The sunlight gazed brightly in through the open windows, well pleased with the plan.

Below her window was a garden, a garden of many gay, sweet-scented flowers.

"Wait for me, flowers," she called out of her window.

"Later I will come down and wander among you. As I move about the wind will stir your scent and it shall be wafted far over the garden so that all will say:

"Ah, the sweet-scented garden. How lovely it is."

"Wait for me, flowers, and I will be there."

She looked up a moment at the blue sky and she threw a kiss far up into the air.

"I am, Blue Sky, I throw that kiss. Wait for me, Blue Sky."

"I will come and play with you. For a while we will play the game of waiting."

"I will sit upon your soft carpet of lawns and look down and see all that there is to be on the earth."

"We will see the flowers and the ferns in the meadows and the mountains and the lakes."

"We will see the prairies and the cotton fields, the meadows and the jungles. We will see the whole world."

"When we get tired of looking at everything we will get out the magic box of paints and we will draw streaks of color across everything."

"We will make you, Blue Sky, a sky of rose and pink and gray, and we will blow little fluffy clouds, edged with lavender and purple, and scatter them about."

"Wait for me, Blue Sky. We will have much to do."

So Beauty talked as she awoke in the early morning, and so she lived, mingling with the most beautiful of the old world's belongings.

But as yet she had to learn that there were other things, too, besides Beauty, oh, yes, Beauty had still other things to learn.

But she was very young, was Beauty.

And oh, she was very beautiful!

Most Ignorant People
A school teacher asked her class in what part of the world the most ignorant people were to be found. A small boy volunteered quickly, "In London, England."

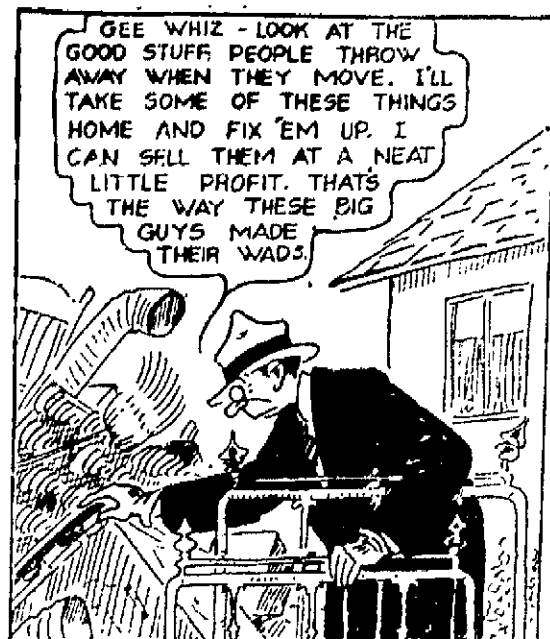

The teacher was amazed, and questioned the lad as to where he had obtained such information.

"Well," he replied, "the geography says that's where the population is most dense."

Hurt When He Lit
Elmer took his baby brother upstairs—a forbidden place to play. As a result, both fell down the stairs. When mother started to reprove Elmer, he pleaded, "Please don't scold, mother. It wasn't so bad coming down—but, O, gosh! when we lit!"

Was King's College
Columbia university at the time of its founding in 1754 was called King's college, but for patriotic reasons changed its name after the Revolution. In Columbia college it took the title of Columbia university in 1926.

FOODS FOR FALL DAYS

The fall days though "saddest of the year," according to the poet, bring vivid trips through the glowing woods and such a variety of good things to eat.

With crisp and nutty celery, the juicy ripe tomato, the succulent green pepper, what a wealth of dishes one may season and combine with them.

When there is a little roast beef left from dinner (not enough to serve in an ordinary way) try the:

Spanish Meat Dish.—Put a layer of thinly sliced potatoes in the bottom of a baking dish, cover with a thin layer of thinly sliced onion, then spread over the meat in slices or serving-sized pieces with any gravy which is left, cover with a layer of tomatoes, using two or three, if fresh; if canned, a cupful or two, according to the size of the dish. Place in the oven and bake until the potatoes are well cooked.

Rich Waffles.—Add the yolks of three eggs to two cupfuls of cream, one-fourth cupful of sugar, two cupfuls of flour, sifted with a teaspoonful of salt. Stir to a smooth batter, then fold in the stiffly beaten whites. Cook on a hot waffle iron and serve with maple syrup or powdered sugar. Never serve a hot sauce on a crisp waffle, it soaks in and makes it soft and unpalatable.

Boiled Salad Dressing.—Beat the yolks of seven eggs until thick and lemon-colored; drop three tablespoonfuls of olive oil slowly, beating well; add one-half cupful of melted butter and continue beating; now add one-half cupful of vinegar and the juice of a lemon. Cook in a double boiler until it coats the spoon. Remove from the heat and sift in the following ingredients, which have been well blended: One and one-half teaspoonfuls of mustard, one-half teaspoonful of white pepper, one-eighth teaspoonful of cayenne, three tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar. Mix well and when using add whipped cream. This is a dressing which keeps well and is always good.

Waffles.—Add the yolks of three eggs to two cupfuls of cream, one-fourth cupful of sugar, two cupfuls of flour, sifted with a teaspoonful of salt. Stir to a smooth batter, then fold in the stiffly beaten whites. Cook on a hot waffle iron and serve with maple syrup or powdered sugar. ### COLLEGES OFFER TRAINING CAMP SCHOLARSHIP

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, Nov. 10.—College educations are being rapidly brought within reach of patriotic young Americans. Since last April, when Columbia University began the movement thirty institutions of higher learning throughout the country have offered scholarships to the honor men of the Citizens' Military Training Camps conducted by the government each summer.

This is shown by a War Department report which further says that many leading schools and colleges now allow credits toward diplomas for attendance at the summer camps. Boards of education in several states also have agreed to grant high school credits to C. M. T. C. graduates.

The scholarships are awarded annually. The requirements are similar to those of the Rhodes Scholarship, high qualities of manhood, force of character, leadership and interest in outdoor sports forming the basis for the selection.

Columbia, Princeton, Pennsylvania, the University of Chicago, George Washington and others are among colleges offering scholarships which range from $50 to $700.

The states of California, North Carolina, Ohio, Indiana, Virginia, West Virginia, Kentucky and Oklahoma allow credits for high school diplomas to those who have successfully completed summer training.

Brook Trout Driven Into Prepared Trap

Trout fishermen of today who go forth to fill their hampers by the use of the latest thing in equipment are wondering what would be the result of a fishing expedition along lines recounted by S. V. Reharr, pioneer of the Lakeview (Ore.) section, who had the experience in 1871, says the San Francisco Chronicle.

In the year in question, Reharr, then twenty-one years old, journeyed with his parents from California to Oregon. One day, on what is known as Hat Creek, some Indians came into camp and told they were going fishing. Having an appetite for trout, young Reharr went along and was initiated into the first and only fish drive he ever saw.

Reharr, the selected spot on the creek, three of the Indians stripped, supplied themselves with short poles and waded into the stream, making much noise and thrashing the water with the poles.

Eventually along came the wading Indians and ahead of them leaped frightened trout, to be diverted into the trap, from which they were captured by hand and tossed on the bank.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, Nov. 10.—Wall Street and the speculative market recoiled in horror today at the prospect of an increase in the rediscount rate of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York to follow that of the Boston institution, approval of which was granted yesterday. Stocks were pushed on the market at the opening, when losses of two to five points were recorded following which a general rally carried prices almost to the level of Monday's close. But violent selling broke out around the noon period, and when the speculative pools declined to "support" the stocks, they were sponsored from the low priced levels, prices fell abruptly.

United States Steel sold above 135 until the third hour, when selling orders overwhelmed the market and it declined to 132.

Motor stocks and the high priced industrials, which have been plunging forward sensationally in recent weeks, were subjected to the largest shrinkage in values. Chrysler dropped 25 points, Hudson Motors 12 points, General Motors 8; DuPont 15, and East Iron Pipe 10.

The battle between the bulls and bears raged furiously in the late trading, with the bears for the first time in many months, seeming to gain the decided advantage. The professional traders savagely the most necessary stocks, whose advances had naturally weakened their technical position.

A decline in call money rates to 4 1/2 per cent in the fourth hour failed to halt the heavy outpouring of stocks and the vigorous downward movement. Oil stocks were generally steady and railroad stocks, after reaching slightly higher levels, were inactive for the balance of the session.

Counsel for Rhinelander's Bride Withdraws Denial and Admits She Has Some Colored Blood in Her Veins.
By Telegram to The Freeman.
White Plains, N. Y., Nov. 10.—Counsel for Alice Jones Rhinelander, cast off bride of Leonard Kip Rhinelander, admitted in court today that his client had colored blood in the trial of Rhinelander's action to annul their marriage on the ground that his wife had concealed her negro origin from him.

The admission was made by Leo Parsons Davis, counsel for Mrs. Rhinelander, following a conference of attorneys for both sides with Justice Morschauser "to simplify matters," as Davis informed the court.

"Previously the defendant interposed a technical denial as to the allegation of colored blood," Davis said.

"In the interest of the shortening of this trial, the defendant's counsel withdraws this denial and for the purposes of this trial admits that she has some colored blood in her veins."

Mrs. Rhinelander sat with head bowed while young Rhinelander shuffled his feet and bit his lips during the sensational admission.

Judge Isaac N. Mills, counsel for young Rhinelander, said that Davis's action was "a manly and appropriate one."

Davis then made a motion that the court instruct the jury to disregard Mills's comment, made yesterday on Rhinelander's weak-mentality and the unchastity of the defendant. Both motions were denied.

The court room was jammed with spectators, including jeweled society women together with a number of negroes in overalls.

The jury, continuing his address to the jury, assailed the Rhinelander millions at attempting to "crush a conceited humble family to save what they consider to be an ancient name." He termed young Rhinelander a "stammering nut."

"The Rhinelander millions, not Leonard's, but Philip Rhinelander's, are back of this move," shouted Davis, pointing his finger at young Rhinelander, who cowered lower in his chair.

"The defendant got in contact with a stammering nut and that's the reason why they say you should release him from this girl. This little girl seduced his father's boy, according to Rhinelander's counsel."

Outgrowing One's Friends

There is one very sad thing in old friendships, to every mind which is really moving onward. It is this: that one cannot help using his early friends as the seaman uses the log, to mark his progress. Every now and then we throw an old schoolmate over the stern with a string of thought tied to him, and look—I am afraid with a kind of luxuriance and sentimentalism compressed to see the rate at which the string reels off, while he lies there bobbing up and down, poor fellow! And we are clutching along with the white foam and tight squelch at our bows; the snail-like progress of prosperity and progress, with a spirit of discomfiture in the matter; for grow we must, if we outgrow all that we love.—Oscar Wendell Holmes.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

By F. A. WALKER

VALUE OF MEDITATION

Whether among the captains, or in the lowly ranks of the struggling masses, set apart a little bit of time every day for your private use and give every moment of it to serious reflection.

Consider what you are, toward where you are heading and just what part you are playing in the great drama of life.

Be not afraid to grope in the dark, nor ashamed to face the light, for it is only by courage, by repeated reproof of self, that you can hope to improve and fit your hand and brain for greater usefulness.

To decide that such a course is of no avail is to admit defeat before you test your prowess in making an effort.

The great men and women of America, whose memories and names are everywhere revered, found their way to the glorious heights through trials, temptations and opposing currents by serious contemplation of their failings and human frailties, the common heritage of mankind.

They found in their silent hours of meditation the ever-blasting lamp of hope. After weary months and years they learned how to hold this light above their heads and follow its kindly rays to pleasant places, stumbling now and then, but always regaining their foothold and making sure of their path.

The fault with most people is that they will not take time for searching deliberation of their own condition. They prefer tickle amusement and harmful companionship rather than the substantial essence which builds good character and ennobles the soul.

They unconsciously become so entangled in emotions, and in emotional thoughts, that they gradually stray from the common sod and soar aimlessly among the clouds, dreaming of wealth and influence which they imagine are waiting for them at every turn of the road, over which they go sailing like butterflies, thoughtless of the approaching winter.

In short, they are quite sure that they are going upward, when in truth they are drifting downward to failure, disappointment and tears, all depicted in the final chapter of the book of their inconsiderate lives.

There is nothing wholly impossible to the man or woman who will deliberately penetrate his or her own heart-sanctuary and wrest from it the poisonous thoughts and wanton habits which are ever seeking to incapacitate and destroy.

WHO SAID

"If grief is to be mitigated, it must either wear itself out or be shared."

THESE WORDS ARE ATTRIBUTED TO

Madame Anne Sophie Sovranov Swetchine, the authoress whose works are claimed by both France and Russia.

Madame Swetchine came naturally by her literary ability. Her father was a Soymanov, the founder of the famous academy at Moscow, and it was in such an atmosphere that Madame Swetchine was reared.

In the year 1790 this talented woman married General Swetchine. After her marriage she took up her residence in St. Petersburg and established a salon there which soon became famous for the celebrated personages which visited it. This was about the time of the French Revolution and there were great numbers of the French nobility pouring out of France in order to escape the fury of the mob. Many of these people found their way into Russia, and because of this Madame Swetchine's salon was frequented by some of the best French people.

It was to her that Joseph de Maistre looked for an asylum during the Revolutionary period in France, when any person to whom even the faintest suspicion of royal sympathies attached was in danger. Joseph de Maistre was well known in his own country as a writer on philosophy and religion and he was a statesman as well. He was a devout Roman Catholic and finally persuaded Madame Swetchine to renounce her allegiance to the Greek church and become a communicant of the Roman church.

Madame Swetchine's conversion took place in the year 1815. The year following she moved to Paris where she opened another salon and soon attracted to herself a group of students and literary men and women such as had been her intimates in Russia. There was one difference, however. Since her conversion Madame Swetchine had become very devoutly religious and her Paris salon partook of an extremely religious atmosphere.

Heavy Selling In Stock Market

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, Nov. 10.—Apprehension in speculative circles over the possible advance of the New York Reserve Bank rediscount rate this week stimulated heavy selling of speculative stocks in the Curb market today.

A flood of speculative selling entered the stock market in the early trading today as a result of uneasiness over the money situation, inspired by the advance in the Boston Reserve Bank's rediscount rate to four per cent, effective today. Little significance was attached to the fact that money conditions here were not identical with those in the Boston district and that commercial borrowing there had expanded much more rapidly than in New York. As the apprehension grew with respect to the raising of the New York rate, traders ordered their stocks sold "at the market."

First prices in Dupont, Chrysler, General Motors, Studebaker, American Can General Electric and other speculative leaders showed declines of from one to four points, with every department of the market bending under the weight of hurried selling. Pools came to the support of their favorites and outside buying made its appearance at the lower prices, resulting in sizeable recoveries all along the line.

Baltimore and Ohio and New York Central led a moderate rally in the railroad stocks.

Call money renewed at 5 per cent, unchanged from Monday's close.

Columbia Meets Army Saturday

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
West Point, Nov. 10.—Army meets Columbia next Saturday at the Polo Grounds in what should be one of the big football battles of the year. The game last year resulted in a 14 to 14 tie.

McEwan worked the Army team hard all last week, his plans being to take it comparatively easy all this week in preparation for Columbia on Saturday.

A great deal of time and attention was devoted to Army's kicking game, a thing that has been lamentably poor all season, costing the Army heavily in the Yale game. If Yeomans, who hurt his leg in practice Wednesday, is not in shape for the Columbia game, the Army will be in a tight fix. If Seeman's shoulder would respond to treatment, he, in all probability, would do the kicking while in the game. His punting, as to distance, is far the best of the three.

If Yeomans and Gilbreth round into shape, McEwan will again have his two sets of backs, including Wilson, Trapnell, Harding, Buell, Hewitt and Scheffler.

In all probability, however, McEwan will start the same team against Columbia that faced Yale on the opening kick-off, although a new backfield combination may begin the game.

The Cadet Corps will witness the game and the team is determined that the effort of the Corps in backing them, will not go unrewarded.

Star of a Day Now a Fixture

Sorenson, Who Tied Game for Penn Against Cornell in '23, Failed to Make Team—Case Like That of Krause, Stone and Roh.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Nov. 10.—Three years ago a young man stepped out on Franklin Field, Philadelphia, and in the closing stages of the Pennsylvania-Cornell football game, gave one of the greatest exhibitions of line plunging ever seen on an eastern gridiron. The young man is Leonard Sorenson of Lewiston, Mont., and the strange side of his case is that, a substitute halfback in 1923, he remains a substitute halfback today. In fact, Sorenson's chances of breaking into the line up are even less now than they were three seasons ago.

His name simply lived for one day and, as quickly, died. But that life was a wild one while it lasted. Needing a touchdown to tie the score, Penn shot Sorenson into the line eight successive times and not once did he fail. He gained three first downs and a total of 34 yards against one of the best lines in Cornell history.

On the sidelines. Everyone said that the performance would fix Sorenson for the remainder of his college career. Apparently, it did and it didn't.

In one sense, its only result was to fix him on the bench this year and last. Sorenson never again showed the form he did in the final minutes of the 1923 season. The writer knows this to be true because it ever a team needed a plunging back last year, Pennsylvania did. Kruetz wasn't so effective then and a very good eleven suffered for the lack of an adequate attack. Yet the man who had plunged through Cornell at random the year before was seen very little.

They could use him this year, too, if he had what they wanted, which happens to be at least three or four yards on the first down. He didn't appear in the Yale game, however, in spite of the fact that backfield substitutes were used. Neither did he break into the Chicago contest, Douglas, Odorine and other reserves getting the call.

Cases on Diamond.

Perhaps Sorenson's another Harry Krause, George Stone or George Rohrer. Old time baseball fans will remember this trio Krause left-handed the American League silly for one season and then could hardly win a ball game. Stone led the league in hitting in 1906 but soon drifted out of baseball through lack of ability. Rohrer was the batting hero of the 1906 world series but drew a release the following season. Then again, Sorenson may be nothing of the kind. Perhaps he is only waiting for the Cornell game of 1925 to flash out with another plunging streak.

ROSEN IS AWARDED DECISION OVER VINEZ

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Nov. 10.—Lucien Vinez, lightweight champion of Europe, went the way of other French champions in this country when he lost the decision to Charlie Rosen, of New York, after twelve rounds last night. Although the decision was an unpopular one with the majority of ringside critics, the fact that Vinez could not gain a decisive advantage over a comparative novice lowered his prestige considerably.

The Frenchman was outscored through the first five rounds but finished with a rush, meeting Rosen toe to toe and having the better of the slugging. At no time was either man in real danger.

In 1909 the Chicago Cubs won 21 games from the Boston Braves and lost one.

In the latest averages, Tony Lazzeri, the slugging infielder of Salt Lake, recently sold to the New York Yankees, had a record of 60 home runs and a hitting mark of .362. Two hundred and thirty hits had given him a total of 465 bases. He had also stolen 24 bases.

Harvard Captains Are Sticking to One Sport

Captain Gray of the Penn State football eleven holds a unique record for the six years he's been playing on the gridiron.

During those half dozen campaigns Gray has been captain of his team on five occasions. In his last two seasons at Kiski he piloted the prep machines and also was leader of the Penn State team in 1922. The following year he was just a private on the varsity but in 1924 was elected captain.

Last year he was again named captain for this season, the first time in Penn State's history that a player has captained the eleven two years in succession, or even twice, for that matter. Gray plays center and is a real star.

Think Baseball Game Is Altogether Too Polite

Is baseball sufficiently polite? Could it be improved by teaching the players to be more gracious in their manner? Would the sport lose any of its 100 per cent be-mannishness if there were fewer waspish remarks directed at the umpires?

It's a question with much to be said pro and con. The older generation of fans probably thinks baseball has already become too polite—too tame and gentle. The hurly-burly that used to center around the field judge and the pyrotechnics of pop bottles, seat cushions and fists are missed by certain patrons. They deemed the fights and the wordy bickerings the best part of the show.

But the pacifist element has come to the fore in sport. The new idea is to let the runs and the base hits fight it out on a scientific basis of mathematical sparring. Let the players remember that they are primarily businessmen, catering to other businessmen, and that business men want no war unless they have contracts for the munitions.

As the managers control most of the munitions of baseball they have the exclusive war rights, but they never assert these rights until winter, when the turnstile trade is slack.

Illinois Will Not Play Here

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Champaign, Ill., Nov. 10.—Illinois will not participate in a post-season game under any circumstances, George F. Huff, director of athletics and the University of Illinois, told International News Service today.

"We have already received six offers to play in California, Florida, St. Louis and the east, but conference rules prevent our accepting any of these," said Huff.

New York Expected Game.
New York, Nov. 10.—Until Director Huff's announcement was received, it had seemed barely possible that the east had not seen the last of "Red" Grange when the well known young man ran Pennsylvania flat-footed on Franklin Field, Philadelphia, several weeks ago.

The game, if any, would be held after the Army and Navy contest with the spacious Yankee Stadium as its locale. This plan, when used for purposes of football can seat upward of 75,000 and that is exactly what it would do if Grange again was turned loose for Eastern inspection. There happens to be something like six million souls in this man's town and not too many of them say Grange when he tore up the turf on Franklin Field.

At the same time, it was feared today that athletic officials at Illinois might frown upon the proposal as savoring of a hippodrome and a junket, the bleat over commercial football being particularly loud and piteous at this moment.
